DEPARTMENT OF THE ARMY
NATIONAL BOARD FOR THE PROMOTION OF RIFLE PRACTICE
WASHINGTON, D.C.

Section 113 of the National Defense Act of 1916, as amended, provides that there shall be held an annual competition known as the National Matches, together with a Small Arms Firing School, which competition and school shall be held annually under such regulations as may be prescribed by the Secretary of the Army.

The National Matches are required to consist of rifle and pistol matches, to be open to all components of the Services comprising the Armed Forces of the United States, the Reserve Officer's Training Corps, rifle clubs and civilians, for the purpose of competing for National Trophies, medals and other prizes and, in addition, competitions for which trophies and medals are provided for by the National Rifle Association of America (Act 14 February 1927 (44 Stat. 1095) and Act 28 May 1928 (45 Stat. 786). Regulations governing the National Matches are prescribed by the Secretary of the Army upon recommendation of the National Board for the Promotion of Rifle Practice.

The National Matches are considered to be the ultimate in an overall integrated national program which has for its purpose the promotion of rifle and pistol marksmanship training among able-bodied citizens of the United States. These matches are made possible through the cooperation of organizations whose members believe that both individual and team marksmanship are essential to an adequate National Defense.

The primary mission of the Small Arms Firing Schools for rifle and pistol is to bring to civilians and to members of the various components of the Armed Forces, not reached through training programs conducted within the active military service, instruction concerning the most modern methods of marksmanship training in order to raise the standards of performance in the use of individual military arms by the citizens of our country.

Under the tutelage of specially selected and trained instructors from the United States Army Infantry School, Fort Benning, Georgia, the United States Army Marksmanship Training Unit, Fort Benning, Georgia, and the Provost Marshal General's School, Fort Gordon, Georgia, thousands of students received the benefits of excellent, well-organized courses of instruction on preparatory marksmanship, aspects of individual weapons, safety factors and other techniques of instruction, which not only prepares the student to instruct others in the effective use of firearms, but stresses the importance of attaining individual proficiency with the rifle and pistol. This year, for the first time, advanced students in the Small Arms Firing School, Rifle, were given mechanical training and familiarization firing with the M14 rifle.

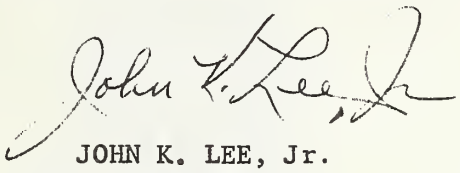
From funds appropriated by Congress to the National Board for the Promotion of Rifle Practice for this purpose, 43 civilian pistol teams and 41 civilian rifle teams traveled to Camp Perry and competed in the 1963 National Matches. For the fourth consecutive year, two junior rifle shooters were authorized to accompany each civilian rifle team to Camp Perry and participate in the National Matches. The Ohio National Guard was host to 22 National Guard pistol and 39 National Guard rifle teams composed of National Guardsmen from various states.

The National Matches are conducted with the approval of the Secretary of the Army under the general supervision of the National Board for the Promotion of Rifle Practice. The United States Army, in conjunction with the National Rifle Association, is primarily responsible for the planning, organization and conduct of the matches.

The facilities of Camp Perry, Ohio are made available to the United States Army and the National Rifle Association by the Adjutant General, State of Ohio.

Approximately 8,000 competitors attended the 1963 National Matches. The support rendered by personnel of the United States Army, United States Navy, United States Marine Corps, United States Air Force, United States Coast Guard, Ohio National Guard; Erie Army Depot for logistics and supply support; U. S. Army Materiel Command for ordnance supply and service, contributed greatly to making the 1963 National Matches an outstanding competitive event.

On behalf of the President of the National Board for the Promotion of Rifle Practice, I wish to thank the above-cited organizations and personnel, National Match officials and all others who contributed so significantly to the success of the 1963 National Matches.



JOHN K. LEE, Jr.
Colonel, GS
Executive Officer
